

In development for Kindle

Introductions

- John Thorne and Craig Miller—Introduction: Twin Peaks at Twenty
- David Lavery—Twin Peaks [from 50 Key Television Programmes]
- Howard A. Rodman, The Series That Will Change TV

Part I. Twin Peaks and Literature

- Rebecca and Sam Umland (University of Nebraska, Kearney)—The King and I: The Arthurian Legend in Twin Peaks
- Nicholas Birns—Telling Inside from Outside, or, Who Really Killed Laura Palmer?
- Melynda Huskey (Washington State University)—Rewriting the Sensation Novel
- Catherine Nickerson (Emory University)—Serial Killers and Serial Detection in Twin Peaks
- Glen Creeber (University of Wales, Aberystwyth)—“Some Strange and Twisted Dream”: The Neglected Surrealism of Twin Peaks

Part II. Twin Peaks and Cultural Matters

- Michael Carroll—Agent Cooper's Errand in the Wilderness: Twin Peaks and American Mythology
- Howard Hampton—David Lynch's Secret History of the United States
- Scott Pollard (Christopher Newport University)—Cooper, Details, and the Patriotic Mission of Twin Peaks
- Gregg Rickman (San Francisco State University), “Moving Through Time”: The Twin Peaks Cycle
- Rhonda Wilcox (Gordon College)—Beyond the Borders: Living on (the) Edge in Twin Peaks
- Samuel Kimball (University of North Florida)—“Into the Light, Leland, into the Light”: Emerson, Oedipus, and the Blindness of Male Desire in David Lynch's Twin Peaks

Part III. Twin Peaks and the Media

- Mark J. Charney (Clemson University)—Invitation to Love: The Influence of Soap Opera on Twin Peaks
- Jim Collins (University of Notre Dame)—Twin Peaks and Postmodernism
- Christy Desmet (University of Georgia)—"Ding, Dong, the Witch is Dead": Postmodern Families in Twin Peaks and Wild at Heart
- Lenora Ledwon—Twin Peaks and the Television Gothic
- Tom Zaniello (Northern Kentucky University)—Hitched or Lynched?: Who Directed Twin Peaks?
- Robert J. Thompson (Center for the Study of Popular Television, Syracuse University)—Twin Peaks: From Art House to Our House

Bibliography

Twin Peaks Directors and Writers